Cookie Policy

This Cookie Policy explains how One Safe Seattle may use cookies and similar technologies when you visit our website.

What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small data files that websites may place on your device. They can help websites function properly, remember certain preferences, understand how visitors use a website, and measure website performance.

How We Use Cookies

The One Safe Seattle website may use cookies for purposes such as:

- Essential Cookies: Help the website operate properly and provide basic functionality.
- Analytics Cookies: Help us understand how visitors find and use the website.
- Preference Cookies: Remember certain choices or settings when applicable.
- Third-Party Cookies: Certain website services, embedded content, or tools may place their own cookies.

Website Analytics

We may use analytics services to understand information such as which pages are visited, how visitors arrive at the website, and how people interact with the site.

This information helps us understand website performance and improve the visitor experience.

Managing Cookies

Depending on the website configuration and your location, you may be provided with options to accept, reject, or manage non-essential cookies.

You can also control or delete cookies through your web browser settings. Disabling certain cookies may affect how some website features function.

Third-Party Services

Third-party services used on our website may use their own cookies or similar technologies. Their use of information is governed by their respective privacy and cookie policies.

Changes to This Cookie Policy

We may update this Cookie Policy when our website technology or practices change. Any updates will be posted on this page with a revised "Last Updated" date.

Contact Us

If you have questions about our use of cookies, please contact One Safe Seattle through the contact information provided on our website.
